

PRESS RELEASE

October 13th 2009

Shirley retires from Monday's Child after 18 years

Shirley Mortimore, supervisor of Monday's Child in Sidmouth Market Place, (pictured), retired this week after 18 years of working with the company.

Shirley is now intending to spend more time with her family – the joys of being a grandparent. She is handing over the reins to Lisa Thwaites who has herself worked in Monday's Child for the past three years.

Shirley will be recognised by many in the town, having run her own business before joining Monday's Child. She will be missed greatly by her colleagues and customers alike having established relationships with both locals and holidaying clients over the years of her service.

"I have thoroughly enjoyed my time here, and seen many children return with their parents as they have grown up. I am sure however, that Lisa will continue to provide the service that is expected at Monday's Child, particularly for our loyal regular customers", said Shirley.

Monday's Child will continue to offer quality babywear, branded clothing for children up to 8 years old, Clarks shoe fitting and Gift Vouchers.

~ PRESS RELEASE ENDS ~

For further information, please contact Claire Jenkins on 01395 515124.

Note to Editors: Monday's Child is part of the Fields of Sidmouth group, which itself is one of the few select, family owned and managed independent department stores left in the UK.